EDITORIAL: Again—This is Your Club

Members should regard their club as a home away from home, a place wherein to find comfort in companionship, some security from outside hazards and harassments, and a fair share of serenity.

But this club, or any club, is no more, or no less, than what members make it. They cannot take out more than they are prepared to put in. Payments are in kind. Disagreement and discord, apathy and aloofness, beget similar returns.

The happy club is the club of happy people. How to be happy is to make every possible use of your club and take every possible opportunity of being among fellow-members. Drink with them, eat with them, play games with them. Don't sit about unless compelled by health to do so, and then not aloofly.

Young and young-old should make the most of the athletic departments — handball and, in season, swimming. Do it, but don't overdo it. You stand to gain much in mental refreshment, in physical fitness, and to lose nothing except tissue that settles in, slows you up, and may often put you a think behind your competitor in the workaday world.

KEEPING POSTED

MANY enquiries have been received for the whereabouts of Joe Ryan, who has been badly missed from his usual haunts on the lower levels of the Club. Enquirers should go up two levels to the third floor where, it is alleged, Joe is receiving the "works," and is rapidly regaining his youthful waistline.

DDOUBLE congratulations to Ernie Head; single congratulations to John Head. The reason in each case is the same—a bouncing 8½ lb. boy.

IF the tide's right and the time's right and the weather's right, and you feel like a few black bream for the morning's breakfast, you should try out the fishing under the Spit Bridge. Even if you catch no fish, you will be able to spend an hour or two in the pleasant company of Norm White—he's a "regular" at the Spit, and reputedly a very successful one, too.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for Joe Monahan. He has just been elected Captain of Bonnie Doon Golf Club—a well-deserved honour for him, and, we believe, a fortunate choice for that Club.

ONCE again, good wishes and sympathy to members who are on the sick list. Among them, Arthur Stutchbury, in Scottish Hospital; and George Allen, also in hospital.

MEMBERS will be particularly pleased to hear of the progress of two of our number who were in the seriously-ill category. Hughie Macken, in St. Vincent's for quite a while, is back home and making a good recovery. Jack Charles, of the "Sun," has also reached the convalescent stage, and hopes to be back with us in the near future.

THERE is a rather memorable birthday on the fourteenth of May—not listed on this page. It is the birthday of this Club, born 1858, now 93 years old. A fine and venerable old age which should be duly celebrated.

JOHAN HOLMAN has just lost his tonsils—and his voice. He is well rid of the former, but his colleagues of the Master Printers' Association (and his friends in the Club) hope he will soon regain the latter.

A NUMBER of members are away overseas at the present time. Off on the Himalaya were Joe Harris and his wife and daughter; P. B. Byrne and his wife; Len Plasto; E. J. Hazell and his wife and son. The Himalaya should be a convivial ship.

J. D. (DAN) MURRAY is back with us again after being confined to his home for quite a few weeks. It's good to see him well on the road to recovery.

MR. JUSTICE HERRON is around the Club again. He returned early last month from an extensive tour overseas, during which he made several firm and projected arrangements for Rugby Union international matches.

OFF to England by air were A. Norton, Noel Hough, F. J. Empson, Joe Goldberg. They should be a convivial party, too.

Happy Birthday to You!

Members are invited to notify the Secretary of the date of their Birthday.

HIS friends report that genial Jack Shaw, Tattersall's Cricket Captain against Brisbane Tatts., is in the strictest training for the return match.

GORDON BOOTH expects to embark on an extended overseas tour at the end of the month. His colleagues of the Bowling Club will miss his guiding hand as Hon. Sec., although they give him every good wish to speed him on his way. Members of the Bowling Club and other friends are to give a farewell party in his honour, and maybe some small token to remind him of the pleasantness of club associations.

GUEST of honour at the luncheon given by the Club's Chairman and Committee before the meeting, was Admiral T. C. Kincaid, U.S.N., who was visiting Australia to represent the United States at the commemoration of the Battle of the Coral Sea.

A HOWL of dismay went up from the supporters of A. C. Gelling when, playing below form, he was toppled in one of the first games of the first round of the Jubilee Billiards Tournament. They had hoped to see him repeat his success of last year, and acted accordingly.

THE Club's Autumn Meeting was held at Randwick on 5th May, in perfect weather. The meeting was well attended, and patrons enjoyed some fine racing. Main event of the day, the James Barnes Plate, was won by Mr. W. Kelly's gelding Blue Ocean — whose dam, Verd Light, was originally owned by the late Mr. James Barnes' estate. A fuller report of the meeting will appear in the next issue.

BOWLING NOTES

Final of the John Hickey Trophy

During the past month the weather has been kind to us, and our bowlers have had a busy time.

ON 29th March, four rinks had a splendid game against Vacluse, and at last managed to record a win against this club, where we are always treated with splendid hospitality.

Results:—Dwyer, Ruthven, Gawler, Jones (T.), 19; Hassock, Hurst, Mitchell, Day (V.), 13. Bavinton, Trainer, Murray, McDonald (T.), 22; Bollan, Muller, Young, Chapman (V.), 22. Gillespie, Catts, Traversi, Booth (T.), 22; Lucas, Lister, King, Edson (V.), 19; Abbott, Gibbs, Glynn, Young (T.), 27; Wort, Harris, Hitchen, Chalmers (V.), 30. Totals: Tatts. 90, Vacluse 84.

On April 12 the final of the John Hickey trophy was played at Double Bay, the opposing teams being Dwyer, Catts, Turner, Jones (rec. 7) and Hole, Eastment, Irwin, Young (rec. 7).

A really good game resulted, but Norbert Jones and his men had a slight edge on Charlie Young's rink and were finally victorious by 37 to 28.

Perhaps the two outstanding players were Doug Furner for the winners and Jack Irwin for the losers.

On April 5 we were the guests of Bondi Club in a game of five rinks aside, and after a very well contested game were down 11 shots.

Details: Gawler, Catts, Chatterton, Jones (T.), 13; S. Cox, Maloney, Morris, J. Griffin (B.), 24. Ruthven, Silk, Glynn, Booth (T.), 25; Murray, Saunders, Bennett, Gideon (B.), 17. Monroe, Abbott, McDonald, Traversi (T.), 30; Donald, Puckle, Daly, Bruce (B.), 27. Bavinton, Relton, Read, Young (T.), 31; Downey, Trigg, Wales, Levy (B.), 17. Ball, Williams, Barmby, Collins (T.), 12; Cooper, Webster, Bell, Amey (B.), 37. Totals:—Tatts. 111, Bondi 122.

On April 11, two rinks visited N.S.W. Golf Club at the invitation of Sam Glynn. Some of us were able to accept the hospitality of Ken Williams for luncheon at the Golf Club, and all in all a delightful day was had. The Bent green is perfectly grassed, and the bowling members can be justly proud of it.

Results: Bavinton, Williams, Black, Booth (T.), 34; Miller, Coyne, Smart, Bowes (N.S.W.), 16. Monroe, Dewdney, Trainor, Young (T.), 22; Perem, Plasto, Relton, Glynn (N.S.W.), 25. Totals:—Tatts 56, N.S.W. 41.

On April 19 five rinks visited Pratten Park Club, where we were accorded a right royal welcome, and had a great game under ideal conditions.

Details:—Mitchell, Gawler, Monroe, Dewdney (T.), 21; Osborne, Charles, Chessell, Lamme (P.P.), 23. Bavinton, Hathaway, Williams, McDonald (T.), 31; Ward, Tyler, Davies, Warman (P.P.), 25. Ball, Hole, Silk, Glynn (T.), 15; B. Booth, Loomes, Thompson, Guy (P.P.), 33. Relton, Abbott, Traversi, Booth (T.), 28; Dunn, Holt, Locke, Galbraith (P.P.), 20. Dwyer, Fay, Jones, Young (T.), 19; Crossing, Carruthers, Woolston, Bleach (P.P.), 28. Totals: Tatts 114, Pratten Park 129.

Considering the short time he has been in the game Barney Bottom of Next Page

Fay played very well, and it will not be long before he is out of the novice class. It was pleasing to hear of Jack Monro's election to membership of Double Bay Club. Jack is improving at every outing, and has all the attributes that make a really good bowler.

Al Mahony, V.P. of Double Bay Club, and A Grade Skipper, has just been elected a member of Tatts. He will strengthen our bowling club and is sure to enjoy his outings with us.

Popular member, Bill Hole, has agreed to carry on as Hon. Secretary during the time Gordon Booth is abroad. The job is not an easy one and members are asked to give Bill the fullest co-operation.

IN AND OUT OF THE POOL

New Swimming Members Came Good in April

Two new members of the Swimming Club battled out a close finish in the Monthly Point Score, Vic Bulgin beating Ken Francis by a point and a half.

THESE two swimmers have been amongst the most enthusiastic members of the Club this season and both had previously finished third in Point Scores and Francis had shown great consistency, being fourth in the season's total.

The "Native Son" 1950-51 Point Score contest is in a very interesting position as with eleven events to be swum before the end of the season there are at least nine swimmers with prospects of taking the trophy.

Geoff Eastment still hangs to his lead but it is being gradually whittled down as Stuart Murray is only five points astern. John Dexter is well in the picture half a point away, five and a half ahead of Harry Davis and Ken Francis.

There are sure to be many changes before the end of the season and, at this stage, the winner is hard to tip.

By the way, the donor of the "Native Son" trophy, Bill Kirwan, looks in rare nick these days and has shown good form by winning a race and coming second in another.

Cedric Emanuel was coming into the picture very fast and at one stage was lying fourth in the season's big event but a few weeks' holiday have knocked him back in the points.

An interesting newcomer to the Swimming Club is Fred Harvie, ex Captain of Bondi Surf Club and a star baseballer with Waverley. Fred was a prisoner of war in Changi for some years but weathered the storm well and shows few traces of his gruelling experiences.

His first swim win in the Club was in a Brace Relay partnered by Arthur McCamley, who has been having a run of "outs" recently.

Geoff La Forest, another new member, has started off well with two firsts and two seconds in his first four races. The pity was that these were stretched over two point score series. If they had been in one month he would have been a certainty for a trophy. His time will come, however.

To hand is a letter from Arthur Webber and Malcolm Fuller from New York Athletic Club, where they were thoroughly enjoying themselves and impressed by the size and facilities of the N.Y.A.C. They talk of five or six floors each many times larger than our third floor all devoted to athletic pursuits and what seemed to hit them in the eye most was that they saw more types of showers than they ever knew existed.

Everybody at the Club went out of their way to make Arthur and Malcolm very welcome and they'll have some stories to tell when they return.

Best winning times during the month were:—18-3/5, W. Kendall; 19-2/5, C. Phillips; 20, C. Emanuel; 20-4/5 and 21, W. Williams; 20-4/5, G. La Forest; 21-1/5 twice, K. Francis.

May's big event is the Club Championship over 40 yards on May 3 (heats) and May 8 (final). Bill Kendall holds the title and, whilst he looks like winning again he will have to move to beat such speedsters as Carl Phillips, Vic Richards and Co. The trophies for this event have been presented by Mr. A. G. Collins.

HANDBALL

Inter-Club Competition Promises Successful Season

On Thursday, 5th April, we entertained at our Club the Handball Team from the Bondi Iceberg Club. The occasion was the first game in the new competition among various Handball clubs in Sydney.

IN view of the fact that we had entertained our visitors previously on a Handball night, and beaten them sixteen games to nil on our own courts, we entered the fray feeling very confident, but imagine our surprise when Icebergers fielded a team that gave our fellows a very nasty setback, and beat us four games to one.

Although we were beaten, we were not disgraced. All games were evenly contested, and were in doubt in most cases, right up to the final point. George McGilvray played Steve Nolan (who is one of the Australian Doubles Champions' team) and a better exhibition of Handball had not been seen for a long while. Both played magnificently, and eventually Nolan won by 31-27.

Eddie Davis seemed to have such a commanding lead in his game against Frank Lund that we thought it impossible for him to lose, but the "Bolter" arrived and Eddie went down 31-29.

Bill Hannan lost to Jeff Hill. This young man gave such a dynamic exhibition of hitting with both hands, and speedy movements around the court, that he had Bill in difficulties right from the start. Bill was beaten 31-19. Hard luck for Bill to meet such a good player.

The next game was our bright spot; Peter Lindsay — our secretary — played Merv. Doherty. Peter put the pressure on right from the beginning, never gave his opponent any latitude, and ran out a comfortable winner, 31-22. Congratulations, Peter!

The final game, between Geoff Eastment and Vic Moran, looked to be in the bag for us, but Geoff seemed to take it a bit easy and allowed his opponent to draw level. After that he could not get going again, and lost 31-26. You must keep the pressure up all the way, Geoff.

The Umpires were Sam Block and Arthur McCamley. Everybody appeared satisfied as they did not receive any complaints.

After the games, we entertained our visitors to a few jugs and supper on the fourth floor. The usual short speeches were made—Sam Block and Eddie Davis making our main speeches — ably supported by John Jenner and others. For Icebergs, Clarrie ("The Fox") Flynn, who was in charge of the team, replied, supported by Steve Nolan and Merv Doherty.

Our Club Member, Mr. Reg Hastings, made a generous donation and shouted for the party. Suitable thanks were expressed by Arthur McCamley, and altogether, although we were beaten, a happy night was enjoyed by one and all.

Win Over Redleaf

On Sunday, April 8, a team of our handballers, led by Eddie Davis, visited Redleaf Pool to play the second round of the competition. The result was a five to nil victory for Tattersall's Club. The scores were:

E. E. Davis (T.), 31, beat J. DeGreere, (R.), 21; P. Lind-

Autumn was a Carnival for Frank Dalton

This year's autumn carnival at Randwick was a successful one for Trainer Frank Dalton. With Oversight he won the rich Doncaster Handicap, and minor races with two-year-olds, Golden Chariot and Sol Rex. It wasn't out of Frank's turn, and you'll agree when you read this interesting pen portrait of Dalton's career.

FEW men can produce from the embers of disappointment and disillusionment those mystical qualities of courage and tenacity that enable them to take adversity by the seat of the pants and rebuild successfully in the face of fate's cruellest blows.

Randwick trainer Frank Dalton is an exception.

Frank's story must surely rank as a classic saga of courage and perseverance despite the sharpest barbs of misfortune to befall any man.

But it is Frank's love of Shakespeare that has enabled him to develop, perhaps, his unique racing philosophy—summed up in a line from the Bard:

"He jests at scars that never felt a wound."

In his 39 years as a trainer, Dalton has certainly been "down the pit."

It is still fresh in the memory of Australasian racegoers the blow which fate handed out to him on the eve of the 1949 Melbourne Cup.

His charge, Count Cyrano, who had won The Metropolitan only a few weeks before, had run a devastating gallop at Caulfield and while the smile of anticipated Cup victory was still on Dalton's countenance Count Cyrano had crashed and was destroyed a few hours later.

That trial was chronicled as

an unbeatable gallop. Yes, Count Cyrano would probably have won Australia's most coveted race.

We have to turn the pages of turf history back to 1936 to glean most exasperating luck which befell Dalton.

In the spring of that year he ran second in the three biggest handicaps in the Commonwealth. Believe it or not, Silver Standard — trained by Dalton, and owned by Mr. W. A. Freeman, whose colours were carried to victory by Oversight in this year's Doncaster — ran second in The Metropolitan, Caulfield Cup and Melbourne Cup.

Frank Dalton soon conquered those pangs of misfortune, and at the present day is training one of the most formidable teams of thoroughbreds in the Commonwealth.

Under his granite-like countenance, there is a foundation of good fellowship, goodwill, and all the attributes that go to make up a "fair dinkum bloke."

Frank Dalton came up the hard way. Member of a big family in Manilla (N.S.W.), he put his foot on the first rung of the wage earners' ladder as a kid in a mercer's shop.

Meddling about with underclothes, sox, ties and suits, did not quite measure up to the Dalton lad's idea of what he wanted in life, so he forsook the odour of mothballs to inhale the not-so-pleasant atmosphere that permeates a racing stable.

He packed a grip and informed Mum and Dad he was going to Sydney for a holiday.

Within 24 hours there was a strange little country kid wandering around a racing stable at Kogarah. It was the establishment of the late Dick O'Connor, one of Australia's foremost mentors of his day.

So enthralled with the environment was Dalton, that he asked The Boss for a job.

He got it, and stayed on for 14 years.

It did not take him long to wield a curry comb, brush and rubber with the dexterity of an old timer, and when he resigned he started out in his own right

Hurling—Royal Game of Ireland

Every time you use the term "hurly-burly" to describe the difficulties of getting through a milling crowd, you are paying tribute to what used to be the national and royal game of Ireland—Hurling.

ACCORDING to Gaelic history, hurling was played in the emerald isle way back before the Year of the World, 3370 — which is sometime B.C. Modern fans of the game will quote the names of great players of ancient times — Cahir Mor, Cormac MacArt, Fin McCool, and above all, Roderick O'Connor, the last true King of Ireland.

Whatever may be the truth of it, hurling has been played in parts of Ireland for a long, long time. In later years it has been meeting fierce competition from Rugby and Soccer, but it is still the greatest crowd-pleaser in Tipperary and Limerick. Here the game has particular historic associations, for the patriot rebels of 1798 were hurlers all, and let it never be forgotten.

Hurling, a game like hockey but without hockey's restraints, is a great game to watch—and, if you are prepared to give a blow and receive a blow, a great game to play. The basic weapon is the "hurly," a stick curved like a hockey stick, but with a heavier and wider-faced head. The ball — the "slitter," is leather-covered with raised seams, 5 in. diameter, 7 oz. weight, and hard as a rock.

The field of battle is 150 yards by 84 yards. At each end is a 21 ft. goal, with an eight-foot crossbar. The object is to score goals with the ball below the bar—3 points; or above the bar—one point.

Teams are fifteen-a-side, made up as goal-keeper, three full-backs, two centre-fields, three half-backs, three half-forwards, three forwards. The game is started by the referee throwing in the ball between the forwards. There are very few restraints on manipulation of the ball by the hurly; it may be volleyed, carried on the stick; hit overhead, hit with face or back of the hurly. The ball may not be lifted from the ground with the hand, but it may be stopped in the air with the open hand. If players' hurlies are locked together, the ball may be kicked on its way with the foot. If the ball goes over the sidelines it is returned to play by the sidesmen. After a goal, or shot over the goal-line, the ball is put back into play by a colossal swipe by the goalkeeper.

The game is tremendously fast, probably only ice-hockey is faster. The overhead play and volleying of good teams is a joy to behold. Often the goalkeeper will stop a shot at goal with a swipe on the full that will clear the ball way down to the other end of the field. Play is rarely held up for infringements—short of mayhem, there aren't very many rules to infringe. Penalty is normally a "free puck," which usually means a one-point goal to the other side. For the taker of a free hit, with a swing and accuracy of drive that Von Nida would envy, rarely fails to clear the ball over the bar and between posts from almost anywhere on the field.

Yes, it's a good game, hurling. Worthy of popularity far wider than it now enjoys. But who knows?—Irishmen have been playing it and watching it for a thousand years, and in a thousand years from now hurling may still be drawing the Tipperary crowds when all our footballs and crickets are forgotten.

It's a tough game, hurling. Tipperary and Galway clash in the final of the All-Ireland Hurling Cup.

SUMMARY OF SPORTS TOPICS

in 60 - Second Sketches

MOST pleasing sports stand of the past month was by Victorian Olympic officials who determined to go ahead with the 1956 Olympic Games plans even if their State Government withdrew its support.

The Government, after pledging full support, had hinted that it would not be able to fulfil its promises. There were suggestions that the Government was "kite-flying" to learn public reaction.

It learned smartly. The reaction came hot and strongly from all parts of Australia.

Kinghit was the statement by sports officials that the Games were going on whether or not the Government wanted to help.

The accommodation bogies can quickly be laid. The housing problem extends to all parts of the world and despite this Finland is staging the Games next year.

She will have had four years less than Australia to catch up on the housing leeway after the war.

But Finland planned the Games. She is constructing flats to house 5,000 athletes for a fortnight.

As athletes move out families move in under a housing scheme similar to Australia's.

Most people believe that the advertising value to Australia of having the Games here is such that every effort must be made to hang on to the chance that will never come again in our lifetime.

Problems must be overcome and panic eliminated. After all, Melbourne accommodates more than a handful of tourists the first week of each November.

Accommodation for athletes should be such that it can be used for housing purposes later.

And as construction of quarters need not start until late 1955, surely somebody can whip up an idea or two in the meantime.

RUGBY UNION

HIGHLIGHTS of the Rugby Union season this Winter will be the visits of the New Zealand Universities and All Black representative teams.

The New Zealand Universities team, which will arrive in Sydney on May 12, is likely to include a number of All Blacks and prospective All Blacks.

Two New Zealand University players, Graham Moore (full-back or winger) and John Tanner (five-eighth or centre), who opposed the Australian Universities team in New Zealand in 1949, have since become All Blacks.

Moore represented New Zealand against the Australians, led by Trevor Allan, in New Zealand in 1949.

Tanner played against the brilliant British Isles touring team in New Zealand last year.

Larry Savage, All Black half back in South Africa in 1949, Ron Jardin and John Hotop, two prospective All Blacks, also have been spoken of as likely to make the trip with the Universities.

The New Zealand Universities team, first to play here since 1931, will travel interstate on this occasion and a special bus has been chartered to take them around.

They will play in Sydney on Saturday, May 26, against a Combined Southern Universities team, comprising Melbourne, Adelaide and Tasmanian footballers.

Then they meet Australian Universities in the second Test at North Sydney Oval on Saturday, June 2, and play their final game against Sydney University at Sydney University Oval on Wednesday, June 6.

Right on their heels come the All Blacks. The All Blacks, last here in 1947, are out this year to win back the Bledisloe Cup and revenge their defeats by Australia in New Zealand in 1949.

RUGBY LEAGUE

AUSTRALIA'S biggest football attraction this winter will be the appearance for the first time of a French Rugby League Team.

The Frenchmen, successful in most sports they tackle, have proved remarkable crowd-pleasers overseas.

They play the fast, open game, shout at each other, and generally exhibit the excitable traits so characteristic of their race.

But the most interesting point about French Rugby League from our angle is that the game owes its foundation to Australia.

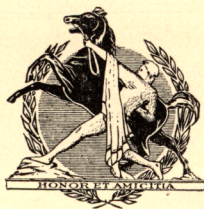

For it was on the 1933-4 tour by the Kangaroos that the idea of establishing the code in France materialised.

Famous Australian official, Harry Sunderland, who managed more teams abroad than any other man, was then, and still is, looking for places to sow the League seed.

He was the driving force behind the playing of an exhibition match between England and Australia in Paris.

The ground that day was snow covered but the Australians

"First Ride Cookie"

For many years now Cook has been called "last-race Cookie" by thousands of racegoers. But racegoers may shortly change jockey Billy Cook's nickname to "first-ride Cookie."

COOK is now engaged in his second successful season of riding in England.

In March, 1949, Cook had his first ride in England — and won.

On his return to Australia Cook kept up the good work by winning on his first mount — High Spirits.

Cook has now returned to England, and again did it with a first mount win.

So it will not come as a shock if racegoers, here or in England, christen Cook, "First-ride Cookie."

It would be fitting, but so is his present nickname.

Cook's last race wins here and in England are numerous, and no matter what he rides in the last race punters will back his mount.

Cook is probably the most liked jockey riding in Sydney.

He perhaps lacks the split-second emotion the public gives Darby Munro, but it is certainly more consistent.

Racegoers seldom criticise, hoot, or jeer Cook, and when he gets beat on a favourite punters just sigh.

But in nine cases out of ten punters give Munro "the works" when he is beaten on a favourite.

Cook is now 41 years old, but put up a miraculous performance for a man of his age when he won five races out of six at Randwick on March 28.

There were seven races on the programme, Cook had six rides, won the first five, and his famous last-race let him down.

In the last race Cook rode the favourite, Artois, and he was acclaimed the winner when he shot his mount clear at the furlong.

Probably everybody on the course was rooting for Cook to win on Artois.

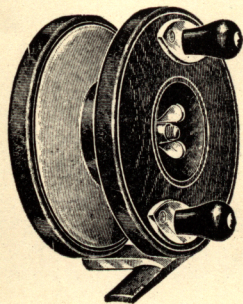

But his luck was not to hold, and old Johnny Zero and Beau China flashed up to relegate Cook into the minor placing.

But Johnny Zero was to prove a happy name for Cook when three days later the champ rode him in the last race before leaving for England.

It was the last race of the day, and Cook rode another of his masterly races to kick the old gelding home.

The public gave him the reception he deserved, even though Johnny Zero blew in the betting from 6/1 to 8/1, and the short-priced favourite, Boatman, finished third.

When Cook rode in England in 1949 he realised his two ambitions since he took up riding.

Although he never thought they would eventuate they did and made Cook the proudest jockey in the world.

Since the day he first went into trainer Johnny Donohoe's stables Cook wanted to ride for the King, and ride in the English Derby.

He did both, but was not fortunate enough to win for the King, or win the Derby.

Now Cook is in England again, he wants to win a race for the King, for Winston Churchill, and win the Derby.

When Cook announced in July, 1949, that he was returning to Australia, strangers wrote him letters begging him to stay in England.

They offered him homes, companionship—that in itself tells Cook's popularity.

Cook regards the standard of riding in England as very high, the horses much the same as in Australia.

But he emphatically states that riding in races in England is cleaner than in Australia.

But he goes on to quell that remark somewhat by stating that the number of horses in a race here is the main cause for that.

There are many more race meetings in England than in Australia, and naturally not as many horses saddle up for each race.

Cook at 41 is riding winners when most men are learning the game of bowls.

Cook, a gentleman, is a helpful person, and a fitting racing ambassador.

Club Members among New Season's Racehorse Owners

Club members were among the many hundreds who attended Randwick's Easter sale of thoroughbred yearlings when 643 lots were knocked down to buyers.

AS on all previous occasions many women and men became racehorse owners for the first time by making the final bid when a colt or filly took their fancy. They either gave the auctioneer the signal themselves or arranged for a representative, in most cases a trainer, to do the bidding.

It is generally on a trainer's or other expert's advice that racehorse owners, new and old, buy a highly-rated thoroughbred. After all, most new-chum owners have little knowledge on this important subject.

A yearling is rarely bought because it looks nice as it struts round the ringside. It is his or her pedigree that is of paramount importance. For the rest the final bidder must be full of hope and confidence in the future because some of the highest-priced ones do not turn out as well as anticipated.

On the bright side, however, the records show that many of the dearest lots won many thousands in stakes.

It is obvious that in a total of 643 yearlings changing hands over a four days' sale, many new owners will be entering the field. This will be disclosed when the new season's two-year-olds start racing from October next. It is hoped that the Club members who have bought yearlings will be lucky in their venture.

Names for the young racehorses are now being registered, an important function on the part of owners. On this subject new owners would be well advised to give the matter considerable thought as a few accepted titles are poor in the extreme.

Fortunately the Australian Registrar exercises rigid control over this side of the turf, which is an excellent idea. Titles permitted in some countries away from Australia would not be entertained for a moment in this country. Nor would we want them!

Writer attended each of the four days of the Randwick sale and is of opinion that this year's yearlings are up to the high standard and rich quality of recent years. Some of the colts and fillies were particularly attractive.

Progeny of some imported sires represented for the first time were in keen demand. Infusion of this new and strong credentialled blood will be of material benefit to the Australian thoroughbred breeding industry and it will be interesting to see how the youngsters by these new sires shape in the 1951-52 season.

Of the record catalogue of 748 yearlings, 643 found new buyers. More than 100 were either withdrawn after the catalogue had been completed or because bids were not up to sellers' reserves. A few youngsters met with accidents and had to be taken out of the list.

It seemed not a little surprising that with such a buoyant market some breeders declined to accept bids offered. In a few cases the figure submitted was close to the reserve.

Champion or mere chaff-burner? A likely-looking youngster by Midstream at this year's Sales.

Aggregate return for the four days, 358,035 guineas, was down several thousands compared with the Australian record, 375,655, made last year. Seventy more yearlings were sold this season than in the autumn of 1950.

Once again "Kia-Ora" stud, Seone, led the way in relation to highest stud aggregate. Its five stallions, Midstream, imp., (15), Channel Swell, imp., (13), Delville Wood, imp., (14), Le Grand Due, imp., (3), and Agincourt, imp., (3), made 84,025 gns.—nearly a quarter of the total return for the four days' sale. "Kooba" Stud disposed of 51 lots for a total of 20,155 gns.

Highest price, 6,000 gns., was paid for the Midstream (imp)-Gazza colt which went to a Melbourne bidder. The colt is a brother to Delta, a winner of the V.R.C. Derby. He later may race in America. Shannon's brother realised 5,200 gns.

Games v. Giles' Baths

On Thursday night, 26th April, we met and played Giles' Baths from Coogee in the 5th round of the Handball Competition, and the results were as follows:—

1. G. McGilvray (T.) v. W. Hamer (G.)—G. McGilvray, 31-21.
2. B. Partridge (T.) v. D. Groom (G.)—B. Partridge, 31-29.
3. E. E. Davis (T.) v. R. Poiria (G.) — E. E. Davis, 31-25.
4. P. B. Lindsay (T.) v. V. South (G.) — P. B. Lindsay, 31-27.
5. D. J. Jenner (T.) v. W. Gray (G.) — W. Gray, 31-18.

Final result of this round ended with a win for Tattersall's Club — Four games to one. There was a very pleasant gathering of enthusiastic members of both clubs to witness the games and they were privileged to watch Handball of a very high standard.

The game between Bruce Partridge and Dinny Groom was generally acclaimed as the best witnessed during the competition. Both men produced every variety of shot known to the game, and at times, the speed was so dazzling that it was difficult to follow the flight of the ball. Each player was exhausted when he finished, and both the victor and vanquished richly deserved the round of applause from the gallery at the finish.

The other games were also of high standard, and our George McGilvray, Eddie Davis and Peter Lindsay showed good form to defeat their opponents comfortably. Johnnie Jenner could not get going, and went down in his match. This was hard luck for John because we know he can do better, but some how or other the tin at the bottom of the wall got in the way of his best services.

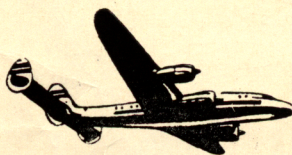

Our opponents battled really well and made it difficult for us to keep ahead. Vic South particularly came with a late run to gain 27 against Peter Lindsay. He appeared to be well beaten, but hung on, and at the finish Peter was flat out to the boards beating him. This is typical, not only of this particular game, but throughout all games played. The sporting spirit of the games is something for congratulations to the players themselves.

The organisers of the competition and every one concerned must be deriving a great deal of satisfaction from the way things have developed. At the end of the first round, Tattersall's are now leading narrowly from Bondi Icebergers and Giles' Baths, and it looks like being a Photo Finish when the winning post looms in sight.

After the games, we entertained our guests and visitors to Supper, etc., on the 2nd floor, and were pleased to see Stewart Murray, Geoff Eastment, Harry Davis, Bill Sellen, Jun., Sam Block and Arthur McCamley supporting our team. For the visiting team were Inspector Mick Brook, Tim O'Flaherty and others; also Clarrie Flynn and Fred Thompson from Bondi Icebergers.

As you can see from the names, Mick Brooks, Tim O'Flaherty, Clarrie Flynn, Dinny Groom and John Jenner, the green flag was flying prominently, but Mick Brooks, when making his speech, brought the house down by referring to Sam Block first as Mr. O'Sullivan, and then as Mr. O'Block. Sam appreciated the joke, but for a time it looked like shillelahs out and all in — but a really good time was had by all—Begorrah!

as a trainer. Dalton is in second place in this year's trainers' premiership. Two-year-olds trained by him have already won 16 races, and there will be plenty to follow before the waning of many moons.

He was the last Australian trainer to put the polish on the mighty Shannon. He trained the grand horse after he was purchased by Mr. W. J. Smith, prior to being shipped to America.

Dalton already has the foundation of a grand string for next season. He has in hand 12 hand-picked yearlings — and who knows that he will not win a Derby, Melbourne Cup and other classics.

Well he should. For where those horses are housed at his Randwick stables, the mighty Carbine was once domiciled under the same roof.

Looking Back on Tattersall's Club

★ May, 1930

MAY, 1930, was scheduled to be a full month for members. May 14, 1930, was set for the Annual General Meeting; the same day was down for the third outing of the newly-formed Tattersall's Golf Club at La Perouse, with the first round of the Ingham Cup. May 17 was fixed for the Club's Meeting at Randwick.

AT the Annual General Meeting, Mr. W. H. Whiddon was elected Chairman. The only other change was the election of Mr. R. C. Walder to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Whiddon's resignation from the committee.

THE first Invitation Dances were held in the Club Room on the 25th, 26th and 27th April, 1930. By all reports, they were highly successful.

EVENTS at the Club's Autumn Meeting were rather different from to-day's. The Meeting opened with a hurdle race of two miles. What is now the Novice Handicap was called the Tattersall's Stakes. The James Barnes Stakes, newly named in honour of the Club's Chairman of that name who retired from office in the previous year, 1929, was over a mile and three furlongs. (It is now the James Barnes Plate, one mile and a quarter.) Prize money was about two-thirds of to-day's value.

AN article on the pleasures of the Club's Billiard Room mentions the absence of Bill Longworth in England. It also mentions a particularly fine game between him and Charlie Young, in which he compiled a break of 228. These two, Bill Longworth and Charlie Young, must be truly evergreen!

THE Golf Club had its second outing at Pymble. Once again it rained and rained. Once again a "home" player had the edge in competition — Mr. J. B. Dowling, a member also of Pymble Club, won with 2-up.

IN the Swimming of 1930, A. Richard still held the lead from S. Carroll.

IN the Inter-Club Challenge Cup Bridge Competition, Tattersall's lost for the first time to a team representing Manly; by 1,222 points to 1,642. (Auction.)

PERSONAL Notes of May, 1930: Congratulations to W. Pearson, owner of Amounis, who came close to usurping Gloaming as Australia's greatest stake-winner up to that time. An exodus to England included Lionel Bloom, D. Levy, J. Phillips, A. Sluice and L. Vandenberg. Frank Goldberg was also off on a world tour. Warwick Armstrong was off to New Zealand. Alf Levy and Sol Green were back in the Club again.

whirled the ball about with gay abandon and their spectacular win thrilled the French crowd.

After that match, famous French Union player Jean Galia, excited at the display of Australian lock forward Wally Prigg, enthusiastically praised the Australian players.

Galia became the League's greatest stalwart in establishing the code in France.

On the next Australian tour in 1937-8 France was playing well enough to have a Test against the Kangaroos and since the war they have been holding their own with England and Wales in an annual tournament.

When they appear at the Cricket Ground Australian fans will be waiting to see something new in football styles and there seems little doubt that they will be satisfied.

BOXING

SYDNEY must have very strong claims to being the most fight-minded city in the world. Houses at the Stadium this year emphasise that point.

Boxing is booming in Sydney now that the fans are being weaned away from the idea that they must have name fighters from overseas.

Freddie Dawson, the best overseas man to visit Australia in many years, proved a menace to our boxing.

On his first trip he virtually put Vic Patrick out of the game. On his next visit he did much the same with Jack Hassen.

This year there have been no importations and houses for matches between locals have been steadily mounting.

Even matches have helped in this regard, also. Hassen is no longer the force he was two years ago and he is back to the field.

This means that opponents like Mickey Tollis and Ken Bailey can figure in close matches with him and the promoters have a ready-made series.

The featherweight title clash between Elley Bennett and Ray Coleman that gave each boy over £1,100 further stressed the interest in boxing in Sydney.

This bout provided Coleman with the jackpot of his boxing career. A battler all his life, Coleman has gradually come good as a crowd-pleaser in the past 12 months and from an average of about £40 a fight at Leichhardt he jumped to the £100 class and then to £200 when he beat Alfie Webster for a version of the feather title.

Now he is in the upper income bracket of boxers and finds it quite easy to take.
